LEAVES FOR BALKANS

German Ruler Will Visit King Ferdinand at Sofia on Way to Inspect Armies of Von Mackensen.

London, Nov. 13.—A dispatch to the Times from Petrograd tells of a dispute between Emperor William and Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, in which the Emperor insisted upon the capture of Riga and Dyneburg at any cost, and the marshal announced his readiness to resign if his ruler's insistence continued.

The story, it is asserted, was based on information given by German prisoners. The meeting of Von Hindenburg and the Emperor was at the front, and Von Hindenburg, it is claimed, replied to the demand that he again attempt the capture of the cities with a request for reinforcements. The Emperor refused, saying men could not be spared from the other fronts.

Hindenburg had pressed. News from the eastern front agree that Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's situation in the Riga district is becoming extremely difficult. The Russian containing their attacks between Olai and west of Lake Rait, are reported to be forcing the Germans into the woods and marshes, which greatly hamper the movement of the troops. The Germans are exerting every energy to complete the railroad which they are building in Courland.

The western front activity is reported. Kaiser to Sofia. Emperor William on Thursday passed through Orsova, Hungary, on his way to Sofia, where he will visit King Ferdinand for two days, according to a dispatch from Copenhagen to the Times.

EXPLOSIVES FOUND IN MAN'S BAGGAGE

Two Sticks of Tunnelite Discovered Among Effects of Passenger on Liner St. Louis.

New York, Nov. 13.—Two sticks of tunnelite, a form of dynamite used extensively in coal mines, were found today in the baggage of a man about to board the American liner St. Louis, bound for Liverpool. The man, who said his name was Abraham Cummings, and his nationality British, was arrested and the explosives taken from him. Detection of the dynamite was brought about by Customs' examination of baggage. Because of his attitude, every bundle he carried was opened. In a package tied with twine were found two sticks of explosive, each about ten inches long and an inch and a half in diameter. Cummings expressed surprise at the presence of the explosive and said he had forgotten he had it with him. He had been a miner, he said, and was accustomed to carrying tunnelite. The police said Cummings told them he worked for five years in Pennsylvania coal mines. He had a ticket for Liverpool.

RECORD IN EXPORTS IN GOTHAM HARBOR

Largest Volume of Business in History During the Month of October.

New York, Nov. 13.—The greatest volume of exports ever recorded in a single month in the history of the United States left New York harbor during October, mostly for warring nations of Europe, according to estimates made today by customs officials. The total, based on tabulations that are nearly complete, will not fall far short of $75,000,000, or about $7,000,000 a day for every work day of the month. In September, exports from New York totaled $162,000,000. Three hundred and ninety-three ships, nearly every one laden with a variety of cargo, left New York during October, as compared with 265 in September. The bulk of the exports went to Great Britain.

OHIO'S COLLEGE COW HAS A HANKERING FOR TOO MUCH IRONWARE

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 13.—A pet cow at the Ohio State university farm had not given up the dairy trade for the banking and junk business, she still would be munching on "sucky" first three nickels and two pennies. Five feet of wire was the next dairy bit she made away with. The last proved her undoing. The wire got tangled in her stomach and when she tried to chew her cud, her wire crossed, rang off, and died.

The bottom picture shows how the Montenegrins are meeting the invasion of Austrian forces which seek to cut off the Serbian retreat westward.

DERNBURG REVIEWS NOTE TO ENGLAND IN FRIENDLY TONE

Kaiser's Personal Agent Who Visited U. S. Last Summer, Writes Article on American Policy.

Berlin, Nov. 13.—The article written by Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, minister of colonies, on the note to Great Britain, reviewing in general American relations to Germany and Great Britain, occupied the entire first page of the Tagblatt. It is written in a friendly spirit toward President Wilson and the United States. Dr. Dernburg gives full recognition to motives inspiring the American policy in the submarine controversy and speaks of Germany's wise "giving in" in the Arabic case. The former colonial minister is inclined to believe Mr. Wilson will press for settlement with Great Britain as rapidly as possible, because this was in accord with American diplomatic positions because of pertinacity of Mr. Wilson's claims with its single tracked mines and because of the imminence of a meeting of congress and the presidential election.

"President Wilson's policy toward Germany and Great Britain was inspired," said Dr. Dernburg, "by a determination to force the belligerents to respect the anti-bellum principles of maritime law, particularly as laid down in the declaration of London, and to regard alterations by belligerents without the consent of the United States and other neutrals as unbinding. America came into conflict both with Germany and Great Britain over these questions."

MILWAUKEE JUDGE ISSUES A WARRANT TO TEST OUT LAW

Judge Page Authorizes Action to Secure Judicial Interpretation of Sunday Closing Statute.

Milwaukee, Nov. 13.—For the purpose of testing the validity of the new Sunday closing law, Judge Page today authorized the issuance of a warrant. He ordered at the same time that the application for four other warrants made by members of the retail grocers' association be held in abeyance, pending the outcome of one prosecution. In his opinion, Judge Page specifically called attention to the fact that the so-called delicatessen laws is not an amendment to the "blue laws," but is a separate statute, doubtful of interpretation. The judge wants a judicial interpretation of this act so that the question of closing delicatessen stores on Sunday will be settled once and for all.

QUARREL AT HOUSE ENDS IN THE COURT

Stoughton Young Man Creates Disturbance at Hickory Street Residence—Gets Thirty Days.

John Whaley of Stoughton, a farm hand, was fined twenty-five dollars and costs in the municipal court this morning for disturbing the peace. The charge of being drunk and disorderly at one o'clock this morning. Whaley was arrested at the Collins house in the Stoughton street when he caused a disturbance which was culminated by the arrival of the police. Two residents at the Collins home were in court this morning to appear against the Stoughton young man, and a young woman told "the tale of woe" which resulted in Whaley's heavy fine. It appears that the prisoner, while more or less intoxicated, and they said it was in the "inner" stage, was an unwanted guest to the Collins home and engaged in a quarrel over a bottle of beer. He was ordered to leave or to go to bed, and after being ejected, threw a chair and started a bombardment at the door with milk bottles. When the patrolman arrived, Whaley had his last milk bottle in hand to use as a hand grenade, but the strong arm of the law interfered. In court Whaley was "derry meek" and pleaded guilty. He did not deny any of the accusations as made by the two witnesses. In default of the fine he went to jail for the month's term.

COUNTY BOARD BOWS TO BANKERS' COMBINE

INSTITUTIONS TOO STRONGLY ORGANIZED TO GIVE TWO PER CENT FOR COUNTY FUNDS.

RENEW YESTERDAY BID

Charges of Combine and Effort to Restrain Trade Fall Offer is Finally Accepted.

The red flag the county board of supervisors waved in the face of the bankers yesterday morning had all the appearances of a crepe, when the supervisors adjourned their meeting at noon today. The attempt of the board to secure bids over two per cent for county deposits failed and after a battle waged through the greater part of the morning session the board finally accepted the offer as made yesterday. The board, Nov. 12, to 13, refused the two per cent offer and instructed the clerk to inform the banks of the county that other bids would be received and opened at the meeting this morning. This morning there was but a single bid, that from the same banks who had made the offer yesterday and with the same two per cent offer.

Charges of a combine and attempts to restrain trade ran riot and members readily voiced their opposition as freely as permitted in condemnation of the methods of the county bankers. McGowan Elucidates. Supervisor E. D. McGowan, although announcing himself interested in one of the banks on the list and pleading that he was not going to influence him in the accepting of the proposal at the rate of interest offered, attempted to show the board that it behooved them either to accept the offer they received or to reject it. Mr. McGowan, however, laid stress on the necessity of the adoption of the offer and read and argued extensively from the statute covering the raising of county funds.

Supervisor Simon Smith of Beloit, did not know what the action was if it was not a restraint of trade. Supervisor Hopkins of Edgerton held the bankers were not to be trusted and that it was not a fair proposition and that if the banks had offered 2 1/2 per cent there would have been no squabble. He advised letting the money remain in the county bank. The board accepted the offer and came right out and was not fearful to announce the fact. "If the bankers are not in a combine," he asked, "then why all the signatures?"

Keep Money Where? Supervisor Osgard wanted to know what would be done with the county funds if they were not to be placed in the bank. Mr. Osgard said that there would be plenty of banks ready to accept them at the rate the board wanted. The board accepted the offer and the county board was not going to be dominated by the bankers.

It's a good smooth-speak that they were not in a combine, said Supervisor Dalton. "I think they should lose the interest if they are not ready to pay us what is reasonable. And I don't think that 2 1/2 cents would be fair either," he said. "I think it is a little bit of a combination myself despite the fact that I also have a little block of bank stock. I don't like the looks of it just the same."

U. S. TRADE ADVISER WORKS TO RELEASE AMERICAN CARGOES

Representatives of the banking houses were called upon but nothing new to offer above that given yesterday by H. A. Moelenpach of Clinton, and Samuel Smith, of this city.

Supervisor J. A. Denning of this city, charged the bankers in a combine. "What would you say," he asked, "if, after the clerk had advertised for building bids, that all the contractors in the city brought up an offer saying that they would build the building for a certain sum and if we didn't want to have the thing built for the amount they offered, why, then we'd have to go without it?"

After Supervisor Wilford for the second time in as many days charged that the entire fight started through the bankers, and that the contractors began to simmer down to the conclusion of the question. Supervisor Richardson thought that it was not in any way necessary to really finish the matter at this meeting and further that it could be just as well laid over until January. He had found, on calling the state's treasurer on long distance telephone that the state was getting 2 1/2 per cent on its funds with daily balances, paid every quarter. He saw no way in which the county was going to lose anything. He moved the matter be continued.

Mr. Richardson withdrew his motion later, however, and Supervisor Smith then moved that the bid of the banks be accepted. The motion carried, 24 to 13. The reports of the road and bridge committee and of the general claims committee were read and accepted. The clerk then changed. County Clerk Lee turned a chair for the board. County Treasurer Livermore, the refund on the automobile bought by the county last year for the use of the highway commissioner.

Yesterday afternoon, F. M. Baisley, southern district highway engineer of the nineteen lower counties of the state, addressed the board at the opening of their meeting following the dinner hour. Mr. Baisley spoke of the work that had been completed this year, of what was contemplated for next season, and also explained numerous features of statutes pertaining to highway construction which were enacted by the past legislature. Following the engineer's address, the contents of the telegram from the state highway commission to Chairman H. B. Moseley effecting the election of Supervisor Fred Rehfeld of the town of Rock was read. Upon learning that the election of Rehfeld was illegal, the board proceeded to elect a new highway commissioner. Their action rendered void the election of M. A. Moore who has held the office for the past three years. Supervisor W. P. Marquardt sprang (Continued on page 5.)

CHURCHILL RESIGNS PLACE IN CABINET; TO EXPLAIN MONDAY

Former First Lord of Admiralty Will Give Reasons for Action to House of Commons.

London, Nov. 13.—Winston Spencer Churchill, formerly first lord of the admiralty, whose retirement from the cabinet as chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, was officially announced last night, intends to explain the reason for his resignation at the sitting of the House of Commons, Monday. According to the Times' parliamentary correspondent, Mr. Churchill will review the war operations of the admiralty during his term as first lord, and will justify the expedition to Antwerp and the Dardanelles. The Times takes the view that although Mr. Churchill's action recalls the equally dramatic resignation of his father, it is not likely to close his political career, as it did in his father's case. "Mr. Churchill's great gifts and vivid imagination," the newspaper says, "have been amply demonstrated in his decade in office, and there are few who would venture to predict his permanent withdrawal from public life."

BLAZE IN CHICAGO FEDERAL BUILDING

Basement Filled With Smoke But Fire Is Checked By Fireproof Floor of Subterranean.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—The Federal building, the most costly and elaborate structure of Chicago, housing the postoffice, the subtreasury with many millions in its vaults, and other departments of the national government, was filled with smoke from a fire in its basement today. That only $1,500 damage was done was due to the fact that the carpenter repair shop, to which the flames were confined, is under the subterranean, the floor of which is composed of a thick layer of reinforced concrete, believed to be burglar proof. A bucket brigade of employees fought the fire until firemen arrived.

SCHOLARS DISCUSS NEW SEAMAN'S LAW

New York, Nov. 13.—Safety at sea and protection of American seamen was the subject of discussion in the annual meeting of the academy of political science here today. The new seaman's act and its probable effect on American shipping was discussed by Emerson P. Farritt, secretary of the International Mercantile Marine company. Mrs. Florence Kelley, secretary of the National Consumers' league, outlined the travelers' need for protection accorded by the seaman's act, and Thomas I. Parkinson, Columbia University, spoke on "Problems Growing Out of Titanic Disaster."

GOV. PHILIPP SETS THANKSGIVING DATE

Madison, Wis., Nov. 13.—Gov. Philipp last night issued a proclamation designating Thursday, November 25, as Thanksgiving day. The governor reviews briefly the advance of this nation and shows that this is the oldest American holiday.

"The present year, with its compelling protest upon world affairs, is well calculated to give it a still deeper and more thoughtful observance," declares the proclamation. "Because of our fortunate situation, we have been allowed to sit as a spectator nation watching nearly the whole world at war. While other homes are bereaved, fertile fields are left uncultivated, and the work and peace of laborers destroyed, we live at peace with the world and enjoy the fruits of our labor."

"Confronted with war such as has never been known, with whole populations involved in racial strife that gives an entirely new aspect to war, we cannot but turn our eye inward and set new causes for hope and gratitude. As a composite people, made up of the virtues of many races, and pledged to a new ideal in government, our hearts have been torn in many directions by a natural sympathy for our kinsmen across the sea; and yet this trying experience has only served to draw us closer to our own country and knit us together in stronger bonds of patriotism."

"For this, even more than for bounteous crops and such material benefits, we should be especially thankful."

SEND ENVOYS OF GERMANY INTO GREECE

CENTRAL POWERS DISPATCH MISSION TO PERSUADE GREECE TO CHANGE ATTITUDE.

FRENCH MENACE VELES

Within Striking Distance of City Held by Bulgars—Mountain Ranges Prove Obstacle to Mackensen.

London, Nov. 13.—Uneasiness is being shown by the entente allied powers over the attitude of Greece, and this feeling is not likely to be allayed by the latest news that a German military mission has arrived at Athens by way of Bulgaria and Saloniki. Official circles in Paris profess to the belief that there is no possibility of Greece changing her present attitude for one distinctly favorable to the Central powers.

Progress in the Balkan campaign is slow, with Serbia's allies beginning to make their presence felt along the Macedonian frontier. French troops are reported to be within a mile and a quarter of the town of Veles and to have occupied several villages on the right wing of the Vardar.

Mountain Balk Mackensen. Field Marshal Von Mackensen, commanding the German invasion is now experiencing the most difficult phase of his campaign in front of a mountain barrier which he must surmount before he can hope to completely disorganize the Serbian army.

Cross Mountain Range. Berlin, Nov. 13.—Continuing their retreat, the Serbian army in the district southeast of Krusavac, the German forces have crossed the Jastrebac mountain range, according to an official statement given out today by German army headquarters. More than 1,100 Serbians were made prisoners yesterday and one cannon captured.

Delayed Report. Saloniki, Nov. 13.—Paris Nov. 13. (Delayed in transmission.)—Reports of the reoccupation of Valandovo by the Bulgarians are declared to be untrue. The French are said to occupy six towns, including Krusavac, Valandovo and Labovo, particularly hills No. 350 and 615, which command Corinthe. The Bulgarians yesterday fired a number of shells at Krivopal, destroying an ambulance. The Gradsko railway station also was bombarded but without results.

The French are reported to have progressed beyond the Rhodana where they were violently, but vainly counter attacked. French reconnoitering parties succeeded in advancing up the railroad as far as the Vardar bridge head near Gorna Pass. The bridge was destroyed.

The books of the Serbian national bank, which had been brought here, were sent yesterday to Constantinople, the books of the latter place no longer in danger of capture by the Bulgarians.

PRINCETON HOPING TO GIVE YALE BAD TRIMMING IN GAME

Tigers See Overwhelming Score Against Blue.—Associated Press Sporting News.

(By Associated Press.)
New York, Nov. 13.—Princeton alumni and undergraduates are hoping that the Tiger football team will turn on Yale today in the annual game at New Haven and claw the Bulldog in a manner which will leave no doubt in the minds of the Eli legions that the Nassau University is a factor in the gridiron game.

These hopes are gathered from a study of the record of the rival teams this autumn. Princeton, under the coaching system outlined by Speedy Russell, has had one of the most successful seasons in the history of football at the New Jersey institution. In sharp contrast the showing made by the Blue this fall has been exceedingly discouraging. Small college chieftains in past years have trembled at the sight of the big white "Y" have romped roughed over the New Haven combination, leaving resolution in their trail. Following the defeat by Colgate there was a complete change in the coaching campaign and the Elis enter the game today in an uncertain quantity, and with the warring odds against them.

Adherents believe that this is the time to strike in for revenge for the many bitter defeats administered by the Bulldog, when the latter was the monarch of the gridiron. Nothing but an overwhelming victory will satisfy Princeton, for since the initial contest between the two universities in 1873 Yale has rolled up a winning record that cannot be wiped out by one defeat.

Of these forty games to date, Yale has won twenty-one; Princeton ten and nine have ended in tie scores. Since 1903, when the present scoring system was introduced, Yale has scored a total of 332 points to Princeton's 172 and this margin of almost two points to one is a heritage of consolation for the Blue in days of football disaster.

Held Your Breath.
A University of California student in a recent medical test held his breath for ten minutes and ten seconds thereby establishing what is claimed to be a world's record. Certain baseball magnates dispute this claim on the ground that they did it from the beginning to the end of the 1915 baseball season.

Tennis Notes.
Considerable discussion has arisen in eastern tennis circles regarding the propriety of permitting players from all parts of the country to compete in state championship tournaments. It is claimed that these tournaments are for the expressed purpose of uncovering the best player in a given state, whereas at the present time the play is open to entrants without territorial restrictions.

Consequently an Atlantic state title is being fought by a California player and a middle western champion will be crowned by a racquet expert from the South. The present system is held to encourage pot hunting and discourage the crowing of state players, who realize that they have little or no chance against the touring stars of the upper flights of tennis.

Historic Battle.
If Jess Willard defends his heavyweight championship in New Orleans next March according to the terms of the contract signed a few days ago, it will be the first time since Corbett knocked out Sullivan that the Crescent City has seen a title bout in this division of pugilism. The California bank clerk sent the great John L. to the floor for the final count in the twenty-first round of their great battle at New Orleans September 1892.

Crew Race.
The dual regatta between Yale and Columbia eight-oared crews set for New Haven yesterday revives old rivalry between these two universities. Not since 1875 have thearsity crews of these institutions met in such a contest. In the race of that year Columbia and Yale were represented by six-oared crews, during which Columbia has witnessed the rise and fall of Sullivan, Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Jeffries, Johnson and Willard, the Marquis of Queensbury championship is to return to the scene of its birth.

Racing Rewards.
Racing on the Grand Circuit this season was productive of unusually high class sport. During a period of thirteen weeks from the opening meet at Chicago to the closing contests at Lexington, Ky., 206 races were held and $427,235 paid out in stakes and purses. The T. W. Murphy stable was the biggest money winner, collecting more than $35,000 while the same driver led the list of winning reinmen, scoring thirty-nine firsts, thirty-two and a half seconds, and seventeen and a half thirds, out of 130 starts. Peter Scott won first place among the trotters and Russell

Boy gained premier honors in the racing division.

May Change Rules.
Indications point to a possible upheaval in college athletic standards during the coming winter. After the close of the present football season there will be a conference between the athletic authorities of Harvard, Yale and Princeton with the idea of preparing a new code of eligibility. In the middle west undergraduates have voted by overwhelming majorities to permit the playing of Summer Baseball by the players of the universities where votes were taken. What influence this expression of student sentiment will have on the Conference authorities cannot be told at this time but it is evident that there is a strong demand for a broader and more elastic code for the governing of the undergraduate athlete.

Pacific Teams.
Football followers who labor under the impression that the gridiron supremacy begins and ends in the east are invited to study carefully the records of several of the Pacific Coast eleven. The comparison of the respective strength of various teams via the point score system may not be the last word in analysis but for the want of better method it is not without its value.

Washington State College, of Pullman, Wash., defeated the Oregon Aggies 29 to 0; the Oregon Aggies defeated the Michigan Aggies 20 to 0; the Michigan Aggies defeated the University of Wisconsin 24 to 0; Michigan lost to Syracuse 7 to 14 and Syracuse has won every game played in the east this season except the contest against Princeton which went to the Tigers 3 to 0, on a field goal kicked by Tibbott.

Making due allowance for improvement among the various teams involved as the season progresses, the conviction still clings to the fact that Washington State eleven is a football team worthy of considerable consideration.

Association to Meet.
More than usual interest centers in the tenth annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, to be held in New York City December 28. Special speakers on the program will be Dr. J. H. Garfield, president of the association, and military training in the institutions holding membership in the Association, will include former president William H. Taft, President Garfield of the Yale Athletic Association and Dean McClennahan of Princeton.

Janesville Red Sox, Who Won Nineteen Out of Twenty Games

Nineteen victories out of twenty games is the commendable record made by the Janesville Red Sox, champions of Janesville and Southern Wisconsin in their class. Not in recent years has there been as good a team in Janesville or vicinity, as the Red Sox considering age. The players average between sixteen and eighteen years. By reason of the long string of victories the Red Sox lay claim to title honors in the state and at the close of the season issued challenges to several state teams who announced claims during October.

The reason for the Red Sox success is that every man on the nine is a ball player. It is said that the most of the Red Sox players had baseball gloves instead of rattles in their hands days and learned to walk playing ball on grass lot diamonds. There are few plays too complex or hard for the Sox infield to make and all in all the past season they have played excellent ball. "Herb" Kakuske, the Sox pitcher was a great aid to the well balanced team for it would be hard to find a superior pitcher among the minor youths than the tall and lanky "Herb." Gifted with a good build for a pitcher, he has unusual speed, a fair assortment of curves,

Edgerton's Football Eleven Justly Proud of Their Record

EDGERTON HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL TEAM, 1915.

During the past three years Edgerton, Wisconsin, has been represented by strong football squads, who have had no trouble in winning the major part of their games with Southern Wisconsin high schools. For three straight years the Edgerton athletes have trounced the weakened Janesville teams and had no trouble doing it this year. The eleven is coached by Lamereaux who has turned out a crack team despite the fact that the material is limited.

GARFIELD FOOTBALL TEAM WINS FROM JEFFERSON

Yesterday afternoon the football team from the Garfield school won from the Jefferson school eleven by a score of 18-12. The lineup for the Garfield was as follows: Cary, r. c.; Dawson, l. e.; Newman, r. g.; Pierce, r. t.; Gokey, l. t.; Butler, l. h.; Kenning, f. b.; Quigley, r. h.; Connell, q. b. Grubb from the Lincoln school refereed the game.

Did you know that Ancho Anchovitz is one of the best lightweights in the country? And do you know that John Gutenko is or isn't the bantam champion? Likewise, do you know that Fred Thomas is light-weight champion of the world and that Vito Caponegras, Isadore Jolobsky, G. Chipulone, Robert J. Mocha, Lemona Kegg and Andrew Chiriglion also are fighters of national repute? Well, all those birds really are fighters. They are battling under such names as Charley White, Kid Williams, Freddie Welsh, Bob Mocha, Roger O'Malley, George Chip, Jim Flynn, etc. The ruling of the

KID WILLIAMS IS LOSING HIS GRIP ON FEATHER TITLE

Baltimore Terror Slipping Down the Backward Grade During Recent Bout.—Three Claim Crown.

(By Associated Press.)

(By George R. Holmes.)
New York, Nov. 13.—It never rains in Fisticappia. There's a deluge. To that already hopelessly clouded atmosphere enveloping the middleweight situation is now added an equally murky condition of affairs in the bantam division. The championship is now claimed by three boys—all of whom claims are of sufficient weight to merit attention.

Kid Williams, the logical champion lost on a foul to Kewpie Ertle, St. Paul's entry, in a ten round bout. Then along comes a little southerner named Pal Moore—not the old lightweight Pal—with a decision over the Kid in eight rounds at Memphis.

Samuel Harris, the Baltimore Kid's claimer voted manager claims that both reverses were "home town" reverses, and that the little Dane was robbed, victimized, rolled, stung and various other things.

The phonographic mutterings of Samuel, however, do not alter the fact that the little champion who for two years knocked 'em all dead is going back—if he hasn't already gone. Looking over Williams' record the past year proves it. Knockouts are conspicuous by their absence. The Kid hasn't been fighting with that old swing and rush that characterized his work when he lifted the crown off Johnny Coulton's head several years ago.

Whether or not Ertle's claim, which is at best only a technical one, is of sufficient weight to allow him to call himself champion, there is a general expressed opinion in ring circles that the first man who gets a crack at the Kid in six rounds generally took it with a portion of salt. Then came his de-qualification in his bout with Ertle when, according to reports, he was going bad. And lastly comes this victory of Moore's.

Williams' manager can howl till Gabriel toots his tube that they were all "native son" decisions, but it won't alter the fact that Moore knocked Williams off his feet with clean punches.

Williams has been a great little champion—a slashing, tearing little two listed boxer who knew nothing when he got in the ring but fight. He never was a great boxer, but as a fighter he was a pocket edition of the Terrible Terry.

He won the championship in a clean fashion, knocking out Coulton in the ninth round after he had him at most from the start of the mill. It's a shame that he has to go under with a cloud of bickering and quarreling over his title.

PEACE OR PREPAREDNESS
We hear a very great deal these days of preparedness. The question is continually coming up as to whether we are in favor of the United States building up a great War machine, such as European countries have had, or whether we should drift along as we have done, feeling secure because of our location and vast resources.

Call Central!

What ever the out come in this country along military lines, the Central Life has developed an organization prepared to meet the situation.

We have a splendidly organized Agency Force—Army if you please—with leaders and sub-leaders, with privates and co-workers in every department. This organized Force, this great Army, is in a position to fight hard and to wage a great battle.

But our fight is for the peace of the widow and the children. It is for the peace of those who grow to old age without property interests. It is for education of children and the satisfaction of business and professional men, as they realize the responsibility they have towards their families.

I know a widow, not in the best of health, unused to business affairs and the business world, alight in stature, confiding by nature, but left, at the death of her husband, with several children whose education has to be provided for. At her husband's death recently, she was left with ample provision for herself and these children, almost wholly because of his life insurance.

I could not help but think, when I met her the other day, what would become of those pretty school-girls with no means for their support or education if the father had not provided the life insurance which is now filling the breach. These children are happy and are living a normal, natural life because of just such a war as we men are waging. Peace has come to that family because of the persistent endeavor of some determined life insurance man.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

He wanted a job, and, like everyone else, he wanted a good one, you know; where his clothes would not soil and his hands would keep clean, and the salary must be big. He asked for a pen, but they gave him a spade, and he half turned away with a shrug. But he altered his mind, and, seizing the spade—he dug!

He worked with a will that is bound to succeed, and the months and the years went along. The way it was rough and the labor war hard, but his heart he kept filled with a song. Some teased him and sneered at the task, but he plugged. Just as hard as he ever could plug; their words never seemed to disturb him a bit—as he dug.

The day came at last when they called for the spade, and gave him a pen in its place. The joy of achievement was sweet to his taste, and victory shone in his face. We can't always get what we hope for at first—Success costs many queer jigs, but one thing is sure—a man will succeed—if he digs—Selected.

Much has been written about "how to succeed," and many fine spun theories have been advanced, but the homely philosophy, contained in this little poem, comes close to revealing the secret. The ladder for the upward climb always rests on the ground, and while ambition may prompt us to skip the lower levels, and spring into prominence, at a single bound, the task is always difficult, and seldom accomplished.

It is an old saying that experience is the best teacher and the most of us have found it to be true. The young man referred to, is no exception to the rule.

The pen looks more attractive than the spade and so much less muscle is required to use it, that the average boy prefers a pen job, or a place behind the counter, to the harder tasks suggested by the implements of toil.

The advantages of a college education are often discussed by writers who believe that the boy without a diploma is sadly handicapped in the race, yet the fact remains that less than one per cent of our boys ever see the inside of a college, while but comparatively few of the men in active life enjoy the advantages of higher education.

This is no argument against the college, for while it is not the school of the masses, the influences are full in every department of toil, and burdens are constantly being lightened through the development of science. This is especially true of the industrial world.

The important thing for the boy to know, when casting about for his life work, is whether or not he wants a profession, and this the home and the school must help him to decide.

The greatest event in a boy's life is when he faces a career which stretches on through the years for half a century, and if at all thoughtful, the responsibility of a wise choice comes to him with marked significance.

Here is where the successes as well as the failures of life begin, as many a man, in middle life, realizes when he discovers that a square pin was never intended to fit a round hole. The misfits of life are responsible for more failures than all other causes combined.

If a profession or semi-profession is to be followed, then the college or technical school is absolutely necessary for a foundation, and the time, up to the age of twenty-five is well spent in thorough preparation. When this is secured, a place is waiting, and advancement is rapid, because a knowledge of science commands respect.

The boy who holds the responsible position of expert engineer, in one of the great packing houses of Chicago, would be a laughing stock with a spade, but men of long experience pay him deference, because he makes good, not as a theorist, but as a practical scientist.

Many such positions are held today by young men who have mastered scientific knowledge, dug out of the schools and colleges. They are a credit to their day and generation and a blessing to humanity.

There is room in the world for a handful of this kind of men, but when they are all counted, including all professions, they represent but a fragment of the rank and file of the great army, struggling for existence and striving for success in every channel of work.

The store and the shop, the mill and the farm are the great school rooms where the masses are educated, and to say that they are not well equipped for the work in hand, is an evidence of prejudice and ignorance.

The boy who aspires to be a merchant has no time to acquire a college education. He needs the early training and discipline of the boy in the store, and this can not be acquired after he passes his teens.

This is just as true of the great army of boys who enter industrial life. The time to learn a trade or a business is during the formative years of young manhood, and not after habits are formed and opinions developed. The work of life is practical and not theoretical.

Next to experience, as a teacher, is observation, and one of the reasons why so many young men fail, is because their eyes and ears are closed to what is going on about them. Here is a little story from the "Fra" which points the moral.

"I know I'm worth forty dollars a week," complained Bronson to the boss, "because you pay Wadsworth forty, and I'm just as good a man as he."

Just then there came a resounding crash from the street below. The boss jumped to his feet. "Find out about it!" he commanded Bronson.

Bronson left without delay and returned with this information: "Some truck ran into one of our trucks."

"Whose truck was it?" urged the boss. Bronson said he would find out, and at the end of seven minutes came back to advise, "One of Dorsey's."

"Who was at fault?" urged the boss with some heat. Again Bronson was gone, for five minutes, and he reported thus: "Dorsey's man was at fault."

"Won't you be seated?" said the boss, with a trace of sarcasm; and he rang for Wadsworth.

"Wadsworth—an accident has just occurred in the street below. Find out about it please."

"Yes sir!" said Wadsworth. Only that. "Yes, sir!"

When he returned within five minutes he had this to say to the boss, and to Bronson:

"One of Dorsey's young boys backed a truck into the truck that Mike Bannon drives. It broke one of the wheels off our truck, but the horses did not run. Mr. Dorsey, admits it was his boy's fault and says he will foot the repair bill. The horses were not hurt, no one was hurt. Bannon has hitched his team to one of the reserve trucks, and there will be no delay in the shipment."

"Thank you!" said the boss. And when Wadsworth withdrew: "There's your answer, Bronson. When you can look me in the eye and tell me you're 'just as good' a man as Wadsworth, come back for that raise."

That tells the story of every day experience, and it means that more than plodding and faithful service are necessary to success. The man who works by the clock, and whose life is regulated by wage scales and stated hours of labor, may be as good a workman as money will hire, but, if a close observer, he will discover that the men who go to the front are the men who are free from every handicap.

The men who carry responsibility and who develop capacity under the burden, are men who know nothing about wage scales or given hours of labor. The question of doing only what they are employed to do, never annoys them. Their clear vision takes in the great world of opportunity, and ambition prompts them to become burden-bearers of responsibility.

"Wadsworth" succeeded, where "Bronson" failed because he grasped the situation at a glance. The opportunity was open to both, but Bronson was not equal to it. Many young men complain of lack of opportunity, when the trouble is lack of ability, and for this lack, they alone are responsible. Don't be afraid to tackle the spade, but keep the pen in sight. The prizes of life are for the intelligent as well as the faithful worker.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

Now that Nish has fallen, now that the Bulgarian and Austro-German forces have united in opening the way through Serbia to Constantinople we may expect startling results in the near east. Lord Kitchener has gone to the battle front in the Balkans and it is a safe venture that he will not act merely as an observer, but what he can accomplish is questionable. However, when the Teutonic plans for invasion of Serbia were first made known, a Berlin newspaper explained the purpose of the movement, to its own satisfaction. The way strike England, it said, was not by way of Calais, but through the Suez canal and the Persian gulf. It might have added, also, that in the East, Turkey is losing an empire over which Germany had secured almost complete economic control.

Were Germany and Austria strong enough to "invade" England by striking at Egypt and India they could crush their opponent in a vital spot. Such a movement would profoundly affect the whole world in its after results. But admitting the German capacity for blundering to be nearly 100 per cent of efficiency, the purpose of this invasion could hardly be anything so rash.

After reaching Constantinople, the troubles of the expedition would have only commenced. And to do what seems the easiest part—getting to Constantinople—is by no means easy. Taking Berlin as a starting point, it will be seen that Belgrade, on the very northern boundary of Serbia and the first point in hostile territory, is 700 miles distant.

From Belgrade down through the center of Serbia to Nish is a distance of 115 miles. Here is where the Moslem armies of old always assembled preparatory to an invasion of Austria and Hungary, which Austria and Germany met now capture. From Nish to the Bulgarian border is an additional thirty-five miles. This makes 150 miles through a country which, to put it mildly, is not friendly, and whose people are not mollycoddles.

After almost a month of fighting the overwhelmingly superior Teutonic forces have advanced about thirty miles, and have called for reinforcements. Having, by sheer weight of numbers, cleared the way to Bulgaria but not to the indispensable railroad, they will be obliged to patrol every mile of the railroad, with Constantinople only 400 miles away.

Before the Confederate forces had crossed the Potomac, President Lincoln wrote to General Hooker: "If the head of Lee's army is at Martinsburg, and the tail of it on the road somewhere between Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville, the animal must be very slim somewhere. Could you not break him somewhere?"

The allies naturally will attempt to "break" this animal, stretching like an exaggerated Dachshund over a line of march of 500 miles. Anglo-French forces landing at Saloniki may strike at Nish, or even Sofia. They have captured the pass at Strumitza. From here a thrust to the northeast would strike Bulgaria in the floating ribs. Forces landed at Enos and Dedegatch on the Aegean might even fight their way up the Maritza valley and deliver a body blow at it between Adrianople and Constantinople. And Russia is still to be reckoned with.

The Berlin newspaper may be correct, but the way is not exactly a promenade.

The conviction is growing in this country that a treaty with some of these European powers would make excellent kindling for the parlor stove, but that it has not much other value.

The fact that the boys take readily to the idea of military drill in schools does not prove that they would lower their dignity by marching in with the girls at the Sunday school concert.

The society people, it is predicted, will go into roller skating instead of dancing, which again demonstrates that a thing can't continue popular after a lot of people learn to do it.

Of the 25 cents a jar you pay the farmer for preserved fruit, all but two or three cents may be for his wife's labor, but it is not certain she will get any of it for a new fall hat.

The football players are submitting to rigid training rules, but you can't get a boy to live on bread, meat, and seconds, and go to bed at ten o'clock merely to pass in his studies.

A great many men can't afford to exercise the privileges of citizenship, for which their ancestors died, because it would take 30 cents worth of their valuable time.

After a careful examination of several trousseaus of autumnal brides, a feminine friend reports a bewildering array of party gowns, but very few working dresses.

The farmers seem to feel they can't afford to have a scientific test of what their soils are fit for, a bit might show something different from what their fathers planted.

It is not strange that the people go to moving pictures, when so many actors of the spoken drama think that the louder they bellow the better their performance is.

In a few more weeks congress will be in session, but the congressional record will come in a little too late to lay under the carpets after fall house-cleaning.

Those 3,000,000 rifles the Russians have just received from the Japs will be useful to point at the Germans, even if the cartridges are still in the factory.

In the line of preparedness, it will not be necessary this winter to spend $32.35 to learn the latest new dances guaranteed to remain in style two weeks.

The golf and tennis clubs may keep running through a good deal of bad weather, but they don't usually survive the closing of the cafes and bars.

The meat producers are now busy thinking up good arguments to justify the customary advance in price of Thanksgiving turkeys.

About this time many young men on a $1 a week salary discover that a $50 dress suit is essential to their success in life.

The boys are willing to help about the house with raking up leaves, etc., provided they are paid 15 cents an hour for it.

The 1915 vintage of cider is now on sale, and will seem attractive to some of our sports about November, 1916.

There is a widespread conviction that the game laws should be rigidly enforced by other people.

"Go to Church Sunday" is favored by many men as the cheapest way to get immunity for a year.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

Why is it?
Gone and we know not where.
Gone and we know not where,
And the chilling winds and the icy rain
Make us think of the winter near;
And you say to yourself, I'll bet a
This thing won't happen again.
I'll save my coin for the chilly days,
And the days on which there is rain.
But the weeks they pass and summer comes,
And the wages you swore you'd keep
Are frittered away and soon are gone,
And deep into debt you creep;
Then you sing again the same old song,
And swear the same old vow
Of how you're going to save your change,
But winter finds it gone somehow.

Not the Heart.
"Good morning, Mrs. Stubbins," said the parson; "is your husband at home?"
"He's home, sir, but he's abed," replied Mrs. Stubbins, who had just hung a pair of recently patched trousers on the clothesline.
"How is it he didn't come to church on Sunday? You know we must have our hearts in the right place," "Lord, sir," retorted the faithful wife, "his heart's all right. It's his trousers."

Motion Picture Ethics.
An eavesdropper can approach within three feet of a person and breathe down his neck for as much as ten minutes without being discovered.
A humorous situation is created when one man kicks another in the stomach.
Any one discovering a dead person must remove his hat, face the audience and enunciate clearly. "Dead!" Otherwise the audience might think that the person was taking a nap.
The proper manner to escape observation in a crowded street is to crouch down low to the ground and run from the telegraph pole to the telegraph pole. One should never be natural.

'Twas Always Thus.
I dwelt within a palace grand,
With hired help on every hand.
I ran the place at large expense;
The luxury was just immense.
I lived on portierhouse and quality;
My chief knew no other word as "fail."
I had a splendid limousine,
A seven-passenger machine;
I also owned a racing car,
And there was not a thing to mar
My peace of mind. I knew no toil;
I had ten men to wait on me.
From spring to fall and fall to spring,
I had no worry on my mind.
Or vain regret of any kind.
My castle was a sight to see;
I had ten men to wait on me.
And when I got a bill, by heck,
My secretary wrote a check.
I lolled about and took my ease,
With bank notes piled up to my knees.
Then something happened suddenly,
My wife came in the room and she
Said as she gave my hair a jerk:
"Wake up, you chump, and go to work."

SNAP SHOTS

We make some progress. Twenty-five years ago every popular song had gone from ten to twenty verses. Now no popular song has more than three verses, and most of them have only two.

We all know how boys get warts on their hands. But how do girls get warts on theirs?

No man is a hero to the family he visits.

If she wears an automobile veil the newspapers are pretty sure to refer to her as a "society woman."

Eph Wiley says he not only is in favor of permitting women to smoke, but that he also is in favor of permitting them to chew tobacco if they care to do so.

Referring to vote getters, how many does a brass band make for the candidate who pays for it? How many does a window lithograph get?

There, however, is this to say in palliation of the matrimonial alliances of the New York "400." Stripped of floss and flummery, every mother looks with favor upon the suitor who can pay the highest price for her daughter.

The trouble with the man who eats only two meals a day is that he dares not to interfere with the man who wants three meals.

What has become of the old-fashioned woman who darned stockings over a gourd?

A man carrying a baby looks as much out of place as a mule hitched to a top buggy.

Referring to Andrew Carnegie's contribution, Eph Wiley says he'd hate to pay ten million dollars for so uninteresting a thing as peace.

There are various forms of punishment. One of them is the cold fried egg.

There are all kinds of people, including the man who likes a "dry" smoke.

When a thing will not sell on the market you can always get a pretty good price for it by raffling it off.

Every fond father should remember that the acid test of his wonderful child is its ability to make a living after it grows up.

Another unimportant detail to which a good deal of attention is paid is the names of the surviving heirs; lives.

In the competition to decide which is the lushest day, Christmas seems to be Sunday's most formidable competitor.

The thing about the blackberry crop most generally deprecated is that the late frost hardly ever kills it.

The Daily Novelette

The Hanky.
"Raphael," she murmured, "tonight is the night of our wedding, and you must swear to me not to forget it. I know how absent minded you are, but that would be the unforgivable sin. I pardon your forgetting where I live the other day, and I forgive your forgetting your collar, and his when you came to see me yesterday, but if you forget our wedding tonight, all will be over between us."
"I'll be over between us," he cried cleverly.
And he did, right then, so as not to forget it.

At five o'clock in the afternoon he pulled out his handkerchief and saw the knot.
"Sure enough!" he reflected. "We're to be married tonight."
And he put on his dress suit and stuck a white carnation in his buttonhole, and, for safety's sake, put the knotted handkerchief in his overcoat pocket.

A pickpocket followed him as he left his house and deftly removed the contents of his overcoat pocket.
"Something told Raphael that his nose needed blowing. He reached for his overcoat pocket, but his handkerchief was not there. He buttoned his overcoat and discovered that his was all dressed up.
"My goodness," he murmured, "I must be on my way to the opera."
He eyed immensely a performance of "Tristan and Isolde."

Making Starch.
It is a good plan, when making starch, to shave off some fine pieces of soap and add them to the starch. This gives a beautiful glossy finish to collars and cuffs, and will prevent the irons sticking.

Here is a new face in moving pictures. Its owner, Miss Marguerite Gale, owes her position to the fact that the director of a big film company saw her picture in a photographer's display window. ## ART OF SOUP-MAKING RURAL SCHOOL STUDY

MISS STALEY CONDUCTS DOMESTIC SCIENCE DEMONSTRATION IN POWERS DISTRICT.

APPEALS TO MOTHERS

Parents Approve Proposal to Instruct Young People Along Line of Home Economics.

The homely art of making soup is the latest study for boys and girls in the rural schools of Rock county. It was added to the curriculum Friday when Miss Katherine M. Staley, domestic science teacher at the training school, conducted a practical demonstration in the teaching of domestic science in the school at the Powers district. The mothers of the school children were invited to attend and all were enthusiastic in their approval of the method of instruction and the practical nature of the subject. It is probable that in another year rural school teachers of the county will be devoting at least one hour a week to the teaching of every day talk on soup.

Miss Staley took with her for her trip to the Beloit school, sufficient equipment to carry on the demonstration on "How to Make Soup." There was a single quart of stove, spoons, ladles, kettles and other utensils and the requisite ingredients. Prefacing her soup-making with an interesting talk on "Home Economics" in the Public School, Miss Staley told of the importance of a knowledge of the rudiments of food values, and how to prepare lasty viands at a minimum amount of expense. It was a practical every day talk on a practical subject which appealed to the children as well as to their mothers. Then came the soup-making, each part of the process being explained, and when the soup was prepared, it was served to the forty persons present. Miss Staley added that it was possible for teachers in the country schools to make hot soup or cocoa for the children at the noon hour, explaining that while doing it the correct method of preparation, and the importance as to food value, without spoiling the valuable school time, which is needed for other subjects, was obtained. Such a demonstration would serve to arouse interest among the students in the whole subject of home economics and at the same time would furnish them with a nourishing hot food to eat with their cold lunches, she explained.

Miss Staley's demonstration on Friday afternoon at the Powers district was the first of its kind to be carried on in Wisconsin and promises to be the forerunner of a series of such meetings to be held in Rock county, and in other parts of the state, in an effort to introduce elementary courses in domestic science in the rural schools.

Principal F. J. Lowth, who accompanied Miss Staley, stated today that also gave an address on "Practical Education" stated today that one such meeting a week would be arranged while Miss Staley is connected with the training school.

To interest and instruct the teachers of the Rock county rural schools in this subject, Principal Lowth announced that a conference will be held next Saturday, Nov. 20, at the training school, to which all the rural teachers are invited. During the morning Miss Staley will lecture on the subject of "Balanced Meal." She will prepare the luncheon, explaining each process, the relative nourishment of the various viands, and how school children may be instructed in the selection of foods. In the afternoon the time will be given over to the consideration of "How to Adjust the Day's Program of Studies in the Rural School."

In discussing the matter of domestic science in the country schools, Mr. Lowth declared today that he saw "it will not only give the boys and girls some idea of food values and how to prepare foods economically, but it will have a social significance. It will tend to bring the children together and will give an opportunity for gatherings of a social nature at the school house, to which the mothers and fathers, as well as the friends, will be invited."

Miss Staley and Mr. Lowth conducted a social meeting last evening in a town of Beloit district, four miles northwest of the city of Beloit, at which Mr. Lowth gave an illustrated talk on "The Home Economics Program."

The meeting was held in a private home as the school house was too small to accommodate the attendance.

BOARD RUSHES BUSINESS TO ADJOURN THIS AFTERNOON

more or less of a surprise at the meeting, which was held in the limit of adjournment he introduced a resolution for a reconsideration of the county agricultural agent question. He had no objection and suggested as a matter of course that the question be laid over until the January meeting. Further, he saw no objections in reconsidering the idea and was of the opinion that it was no more than fair to give those people who had the matter in mind a chance to get their views on the subject before the board.

Supervisor Austin's assertion that the move was instituted by the Commercial club was met with "Well show your difference" from O. O. Neale, who said: "I do not think this was introduced by the Commercial club, but by the farmers. Yesterday you had appeared before your county board of supervisors in the southern part of the county."

Supervisor Simon Smith's proposal to postpone action until the second day of January meeting, Jan. 12, was accepted and the matter closed.

A good share of the afternoon was given over to the reports of standing committees. Supervisor O. O. Neale gave that of the Judiciary and illegal taxes; C. McCarthy, the district attorney's report; Supervisor Fred Reinfeld, the application for the relief of blind and insane, and John P. Fisher, the report of the county sheriff, constables and superintendent of insane asylum, superintendent of poor and special relief for poor and soldiers' relief fund.

BURRO AND CHECK IN BUSINESS DEAL RESULTS IN JAIL

Milton Man, John Nyman, Charged With Obtaining Money Under False Pretences in Court.

An attempt to imitate the "quick wealth" schemes of the book fabled Wallingford is the cause of John Nyman, a cement worker, who was arrested in a cell at the county jail today and repented. It is alleged that Nyman saw a golden opportunity to make a few dollars on a little business transaction that smelted strongly of "high finance" and false pretence.

B. R. Young of Milton owned a burro. It was a common, everyday kind that one sees together with pictures of Pike's Peak in the same reason or other. Nyman wanted that burro. He made negotiations with Young and the deal was closed, the verbal contract made good and binding. In consideration for the receiving of the burro, Nyman paid Young a check on the bank of Milton for ten dollars.

The burro changed hands and Nyman walked off with the animal, leaving the man who had sold it, wondering whether the trade was satisfactory.

At this point the trouble started. Nyman, an engineer, who had been sold that burro to Harry Bishop, saloonkeeper in this city, for the sum of fifteen dollars, good and lawful money. Bishop then hired a party to take the burro to Edgerton for some purpose unknown.

Young, up at Milton, had taken the check, which closed the transaction, to the bank. He had the bank refuse to honor the paper for the perfectly good reason that Nyman had no money in the bank to his credit. Immediately Young came to Janesville and on route he saw a strange leading the burro, which he had owned, out of the city. The police were told of the trouble and Officer Bishop and Bishop, Junior, then Officer Gower saw Nyman going into the Bishop saloon, and going in the front door caught the man. The whole affair took place in less than six hours' time.

From what can be learned Nyman had intentions of going to Milton after selling the burro and placing the ten dollars in the bank to cover the check. Any pocket the check was in, he is alleged to have lost. He was taken into custody.

Yesterday afternoon Nyman was arraigned in the municipal court on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences. He waived his right for a preliminary examination and his case was set for November 17th. He was committed to the county jail. District Attorney Dunwiddie stated this morning that the case might be settled by the payment of the ten dollars to Young and Nyman will have the burro on his hands as punishment.

REPORT ON AMOUNT DUE FOR PAVEMENT

Board of Public Works Files Statement on Gund-Graham Contract.

At the adjourned meeting of the city council yesterday afternoon the report of the board of public works regarding the amount due Gund-Graham Construction company on the paving contract for the asphalt-macadam work on Wisconsin and South streets, was accepted and filed.

The report showed that the contract price or total cost was $6,821.77. The certificates against the property owners is given as being $6,401.87, and the amount of the city's share from the funds is $518.50 and $110.93 from the city general fund. The amount due on the contract is $6,755.95. The amount deducted for the use of the city steam power and for stone from the city quarry reported is $1,441.30, leaving a balance of $6,314.65 due the company.

Besides accepting the report, the Janesville Electric company was ordered to remove the present wires on Jackson and West Bluff streets and Jackson and River streets. One hundred power lights were ordered on the streets, and the city was also to Franklin and Wall, River and Ravine, Mineral Point avenue and Franklin, South Third and Fremont.

The new avenue midway between Richardson and Madison streets, and on Milton avenue, near the city limits.

John Dalton was appointed special police officer without pay by Mayor James Harrison, and the appointment was confirmed. On meeting was adjourned until Tuesday.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Janesville Anti-Tuberculosis association will be held Monday evening at the City Hall at 7:30.

CITY TAX RATE WILL BE $10.37 NEXT YEAR

Rate of $10.0337 Per Dollar is Defined—Rates for City For City Taxes and Budgets Since Commission Rule.

Janesville's city tax rate for next year will be $10.37 per thousand dollars or $10.0337 cents per dollar.

While this figure was announced at the time of the levy as being the approximate rate for the coming year, it was not until Friday that the rate was figured out definitely. The rate is obtained by dividing the tax as passed by the council of $153,930.00 by the value of the property, which amounts to $15,387,870. The city rate this year of $10.27 is the highest in the last three years, but lower than the rate of the first year of the commission form of government, in 1912, and much lower than in previous years under the old system.

In 1914 the tax rate was $9.56 per thousand, and in 1913 it was $9.45. This year it was $10.27. In 1913 the rate was $10.27 and the levy $157,215 and in 1912 the rate was $10.67 and the levy $159,993. As it is expected that the rate and valuation taxes will be reduced this year, it is probable that the Janesville tax payers will have about the same taxes to pay this year as last, when the state tax was high and the city low. Despite the slight raise in the rate, reports from other cities show that Janesville's rate is the lowest in Wisconsin.

FIND ROCKFORD MAN ON GOOSE ISLAND IN UNCONSCIOUS STATE

Young Man Believed to Be Oscar Ellison at Mercy Hospital in Stupor.—No Evidence of Fault Play.

Shortly before one o'clock this afternoon, Byron Jones found an unconscious, well-dressed man lying in the weeds on Goose Island.

The paper was at once notified and Dr. Fred Sutherland called. The man was hurried to Mercy Hospital, where at a late hour this afternoon he had not recovered consciousness.

From papers and receipts found in his pockets it is believed that he is Oscar Ellison of Rockford. He was dressed in a suit of blue serge, a gold watch and forty dollars in money in his pocket, as well as other articles of value, and his body showed no signs of any assault, so the authorities are at a loss to discover how he happened to be wandering to the place he was found in.

It has been suggested that he walked up the river road and became confused when reaching the narrow road leading to the island, and crossing the causeway lost his way and wandered about until exhausted, when he laid down. It is possible he was stricken with a fit of some sort, as his mouth was flanked with foam when discovered by Jones, who was rowing near the island. The body was stiff when discovered and almost lifeless, and he apparently laid in the weeds for some hours.

Dr. Sutherland stated that the man would not die from exposure, but that complications might set in later, owing to his weakened condition. The local police have notified the Rockford authorities. There was no indication that the man had been drinking when discovered.

TO OPEN LAYMEN'S CAMPAIGN IN CITY

Prominent Speakers Will Talk at Y. M. C. A. and at Union Service on Sunday.

The Laymen's Missionary convention held this week in Milwaukee, is one of great inspiration. More than 1,200 men attended the opening session held in the Scottish Rite cathedral. The registration has reached 1,600 men.

Yesterday and today the great leaders of Christianity gave strong addresses. B. M. Pippie, president of the Methodist Episcopal church at Rome, gave a stirring address. Rev. F. A. Agar former missionary to Africa, now field secretary United Missionary Campaign Northern Baptist convention and Rev. William S. Marshall, D.D., a pastor for twenty years of one of the largest Presbyterian churches in Illinois, now western secretary of the United Presbyterian church, gave a powerful address.

Every Christian desires his church to move forward in the most aggressive and effective way. But that which retards growth and consecration is failure to keep in touch with world movements.

It is the hope of the clergy participating in this union meeting of Sunday that the brightest speakers who are leading the churches of America into organized activity, the members of the local churches will heartily cooperate in the three following ways:

First—Pray for these meetings of Sunday.

Second—Let the men of the churches, especially the officers, attend the afternoon meeting held in the Y. M. C. A.

Third—The Christian men, women, and young people, attend the evening union meeting to be held in the Methodist Episcopal church at 7:30.

The funeral services were held this morning at St. Paul's church, Chicago, by Reverend Thomas McLean of Duluth, former pastor of the Trinity church of this city, and were held in a sorrowful and beautiful manner.

Mr. McKee accompanied the funeral party to Janesville and conducted the services at the grave here. At the Janesville depot the remains were met by a group of sorrowing relatives and friends and escorted to their last resting place in Oak Hill cemetery.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Anita Stewart in "The Sins of the Mothers."

There were thirty-five hundred contestants in the New York Sun's scenario contest; thirty-five hundred people put their best work into a story for a picture, the prize for the best amounting to $1,000. Out of these thirty-five hundred stories "The Sins of the Mothers," written by Elaine Sterns, was chosen as the winner. You can realize that to be the winner of such a contest the story must be one of tremendous power. This remarkable story, produced in picture form by an unexcelled company, will be presented at the Majestic next Thursday and Friday.

No better actress could have been chosen for the difficult leading role than Anita Stewart, and no better man to play the part of her husband than Earle Williams. In "The Sins of the Mothers," Anita Stewart plays the mother. With such players and such a play, nothing more could be said to recommend "The Sins of the Mothers."

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Edith Storey in "Captain Alvarez." Here is a dashing romance that exactly suits the capable actress, who is distinguished herself in "The Island of Regeneration." On account of the success that "Captain Alvarez" achieved at its former showing a couple of weeks ago, it will have a return showing on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. It is the kind of a story that is irresistible; it has just the tinge of romance and just the spirit of adventure running through it, six reels that make it the most enjoyable sort of an evening's entertainment.

AT THE PRINCESS.

King Baggot on Sunday. The Princess announces for Sunday a four act feature with the popular film star, King Baggot. "The Suburban," contains among other scenes a thrilling jockey race that will make one want to rise in his seat and urge his favorite on. This scene comes as a mighty climax and promises to be a whirlwind.

It was produced by George Leseey and features King Baggot, who appears as the greatly misrepresented son. This young man marries contrary to his father's wishes and is subsequently disowned. In the end he completely frustrates the man whom his father has made his heir, by rescuing his father's imprisoned jockey. A reconciliation follows.

HOBBART BOSWORTH AT PRINCESS IN STIRRING DRAMA

Scarlet Sin Proves to Be a Vivid Western Story Photo-Play Success. Thrill followed thrill in rapid succession last evening in the presentation of this masterpiece of the five reel soul-stirring drama. Hobart Bosworth showed himself up in true form and carried the large audience with him in breathless suspense as he met the magnificent situations which rose before him in highly dramatic manner. Mr. Bosworth was ably supported by Jane Novak, considered one of the most accomplished women in stardom; also Grace Thompson, Frank Elliott, Hart Hoxie, Ed Brown, Wadsworth Harve, and with all completed a roster of as sterling a cast of movie stars as was ever assembled in one place before.

The Scarlet Sin is a spiritual story told in a surprising artistic and red-blooded way. The scenario of the production was based upon the original story written by Olga Clark and relates the struggle of a minister who gives up a $10,000 Fifth avenue apartment to convert a town of miners who seem to have been lost in the whirlwind of sin. He accomplishes this difficult task of winning the miners' hearts to his cause only by due physical strength. His wife, being overcome by the pangs of discontent, left him and eloped with another man whom she thought she loved better. Miss Novak in the part of the errand wife, brought out her suffering and dissatisfaction in her new life in Paris in a masterful way and showed how she at last saw the folly of her ways, returned to the duty, making settlement and left to the feet of her true lover, the elder, for forgiveness.

AT THE APOLLO.

Walker Whiteside in "The Melting Pot."

Israel Zangwill's famous American drama, "The Melting Pot," will be presented at the Apollo Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week for afternoon and evening performances each day. Walker Whiteside, who made this masterful play famous on the stage, will be seen in his original role in this picture play. The advance sale of seats for the evening shows has already been larger than any previous feature presented at this theatre.

In reviewing "The Melting Pot" after its initial appearance at the Fine Arts Theatre in Chicago this summer, James Warren Currie of the Examiner had the following to say: "I have seen both the play and the picture, and I think the picture is the better of the two. Not that there was any improvement in Mr. Whiteside's portrayal. He was as good in the one as in the other. But there was so much more visualized in the picture. The horrors of Kishineff and the sacrifice of Vera Ravendal, the daughter of the man who gave the idea for the slaughter of the Jews on Black Easter, all were given in detail in the picture. Noble in the play they were necessarily introduced as part of the dialogue.

"Valentine Grant, in the role of Vera, lifted herself from the position of foil to the star and usurped a place in which she shared the star's honors with Mr. Whiteside. She did this through her screen presence, her 'type' and her acting, and all three went far to make the picture one of the best that has been made.

"Precident, recently established, of applauding a moving picture, received the seal of approval at the Fine Arts when the spectators clapped and applauded just as they did the play. And the Fine Arts management was partly responsible for this because of the introduction of a musical theme that went with the play.

"The theme of the play is the welding of the world's races in the crucible of the United States, and the symbol was wonderfully set before the spectator in a series of 'visions' which pictured the earth's people being lowered into the melting pot and emerging a new people.

"The Melting Pot" is a real masterpiece. The theme of the story and love of country is depicted for you and you go away satisfied."

AT THE APOLLO.

Mary Pickford in "Esmeralda." Mary Pickford, the idol of the screen, is presented in another photoplay that will increase her fame and popularity, if such a thing is remotely possible. In the Famous Players Film Company's four-part photo-adaptation of Frances Hodgson Burnett's great human drama, "Esmeralda," the latest release on the Paramount program at the Apollo for Monday.

Miss Pickford delineates this famous character-study with all the sweetness and tenderness that is illustrated here. Mr. Burnett, it will be remembered, is also the author of two other unusual Famous Players successes, "The Dawn of a Tomorrow" and "The Pretty Sister of Jose," in the former of which "Little Mary" scored one of her greatest screen triumphs since "Tess of the Storm Country." In "Esmeralda" the gifted actress has cleverly interwoven real pathos, simple and beautiful sentiment and a quiet originality and humor that will reach both the heart and the soul of people of all ages and temperaments, which the always charming and wonderful little star interprets in a manner at all times supreme.

Whether in Esmeralda's quiet, simple little home on the farm, or in the whirl of society's life in a large metropolis, she is the master of every situation with which the picture drama confronts her. Not only because it is much unlike anything else

"OWLS CALLED WISE BECAUSE SILENT; EXAMPLE FOR ME," SAYS BLANCHE SWEET

Blanche Sweet.

Though she is familiar to millions, Blanche Sweet, the screen star, has never appeared before an audience. She has never spoken from a theater stage. She could do it if she wished, no doubt, but as Miss Sweet says: "Owls are considered wise because no one ever heard them speak. Guess I'll follow their example."

Another strange device used in these battle tactics is a battery of glass bottles, each with a cork in a wire rack within easy reach of the operator. The latter flies over the enemy's lines, the purpose being to throw the bottles, which explode when the shots are taking effect, thus giving them the exact range. The little glass bottles contain a liquid which explodes five seconds after the cork is removed, making a puff of smoke or a short trail of smoke. This is aerial telegraphing. The smoke puffs are dots; the smoke-trails are dashes. Thus the pilot takes out the far-range bottle in dots and dashes of smoke, telling the watchers that their shots are too high, or too low, or too far to the left or right, and thus giving the exact range.

Use of Wireless.

Still another remarkable development in the French tactics is the use of wireless, which is employed to keep communication over a radius of 220 miles with a central station. The aero-wireless is a small and del-
